DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double --patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-22 of U.S. Patent No. 7,138,645.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims in the instant application are broader than the patent claims and therefore are fully discloses.

Regarding claims 1, 4 and 7 Arai discloses,

A calibration pattern in which a predetermined pattern is formed on one of a plurality of three-dimensionally arranged planes and one or more curved surfaces (note claims 1 col. 8 lines 25-31); and

A relative position and posture fixing section which fixes relative position and posture between the calibration pattern and the imaging system (note claim 1 col. 8 lines 35-37, examiner interprets as photographing relative to the pattern).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Beardsley (6,917,702).

Regarding claims 1, 4 and 7 Beardsly discloses,

A calibration pattern in which a predetermined pattern is formed on one of a plurality of three-dimensionally arranged planes and one or more curved surfaces (note fig. 1 block 150 and col. 3 lines 24-258 and col. 4 lines 16-20, examiner interprets as patterns on 3d or curved calibration object);

A relative position and posture fixing section which fixes relative position and posture between the calibration pattern and the imaging system (note fig. 1 block 140 and col. 3 lines 25-.35, examiner interprets turntable fixes the position of posture between pattern on the object and imaging system (camera).

Regarding claim 2 Beardsly discloses,

One of a plurality of three-dimensionally arranged planes and one or more curved surfaces; and a calibration pattern in which a predetermined pattern is formed on the one of a plurality of three-dimensionally arranged planes or one or more curved surfaces and in a range where a shape is substantially similar to an object imaged by the imaging system (note fig. 1 block 150).

Regarding claim 3 Beardsly discloses,

Wherein a ratio between the objects imaged by the imaging system and the pattern in the range where the shape is substantially similar in width, height and depth is about 1.0 (note fig. 1 block 150).

Regarding claims 5 and 6 Beardsly discloses,

Wherein the unit comprises a plurality of imaging systems which enable imaging of the object from a plurality of view points, and the imaging area instruction section corresponds to only one of the plurality of imaging systems (note fig. 1 c1-c6).

Regarding claim 8 Beardsly discloses,

A plurality of imaging systems which enable imaging of the object from a plurality of view points, and the imaging posture instruction section corresponds to only one of the plurality of imaging systems (note col. 4 lines 55-30).

Regarding claim 9 Beardsly discloses,

Wherein the unit comprises a plurality of imaging systems which enable imaging of the object from a plurality of view points, and the imaging posture instruction section corresponds to the plurality of imaging systems. (Note col. 6 lines 30-41).

Regarding claim 10 Beardsly discloses,

Wherein the imaging posture instruction section is a bar-shaped instruction member extended in an optical axis direction of the imaging system when the imaging system carries out imaging for calibration (note fig. 1, block 140).
